

Ariel Salleh (ed),
Eco-Sufficiency and Global Justice:
women write political ecology
London and New York: Pluto Press, 2009

Contents

1 - Ecological Debt : Embodied Debt

Ariel Salleh

Triangulating political ecology
The meta-industrial labour class

PART I - HISTORIES

Extract: Veronika Bennholdt Thomsen and Maria Mies,
The Subsistence Perspective

2 - The Devaluation of Women's Labour

Silvia Federici

Population and the disciplining of women
Reproductive labour is natural and historical
Women's productive labour as 'non-work'
The invention of 'femininity' and the 'housewife'
Sex, race, and class in the colonies

3 - Who is the 'He' of He Who Decides in Economic Discourse?

Ewa Charkiewicz

Economics as a seriality of truth games
How to train a wife to manage an estate
Sovereignty and patriarchy as dispositif
A national familial household
Sovereign capital and abandonment
Patria potestas, cura materna

4 - The Diversity Matrix: Relationship and Complexity

Susan Hawthorne

Living as part of the whole
Indigenous, feminist, and ecological economics
Particularity, concreteness, and place
Eco-social systems and 'life'
Towards a wild economics

PART II - MATTER

Extract: Carolyn Merchant, Earthcare

5 - Development for Some is Violence for Others

Nalini Nayak

Fishing for export or livelihood?

Technologies of abandonment
Patriarchal cultures old and new

6 - Nuclearised Bodies and Militarised Space

Zohr de Ishtar

One bomb vapourised an entire island
Radioactive ecosystem: human guinea pigs
Nuclear pollution and cancer deaths
Economic, social, and cultural fallout
Crimes against humanity

7 - Women and Deliberative Water Management

Andrea Moraes and Ellie Perkins

Women, feminism, and NGOs
Ecofeminist and transformative leadership
Deliberative democracy in practice

PART III - GOVERNANCE

Extract: Hilikka Pietila, 'Ontological Presuppositions'

8 - Mainstreaming Trade and Millennium Development Goals?

Gig Francisco and Peggy Antrobus

Engendering neoliberal policies
Between religious and economic fundamentalism
Equality and women's empowerment
Poverty is embedded in gender relations

9 - Policy and the Measure of Woman

Marilyn Waring

Do women count for nothing?
Real life: alternative models
The Index of Sustainable Welfare (ISEW)
The Human Development Index (HDI)
The Genuine Progress Indicators (GPI)
People setting their own indicators
Interpreting data in non-monetary terms
The Alberta GPI

10 - Feminist Ecological Economics in Theory and Practice

Sabine U. O'Hara

Reclaiming neglected contexts
Making the invisible visible
Methods reflect power structures
Feminist ecological economics

PART IV - ENERGY

Extract: Teresa Brennan, Exhausting Modernity

11 - Who Pays for Kyoto Protocol? Selling Oxygen and Selling Sex

Ana Isla

Enclosing the forest to sell oxygen
Natural capital or superorganism?
The crisis of gatherers and small farmers
The crisis of women and children
Resisting narrow environmentalism

12 - How Global Warming is Gendered

Meike Spitzner

Common but differentiated responsibilities?
From procedural to substantive change
A chance for gender post 2012?

13 - Women and the Abuja Declaration for Energy Sovereignty

Leigh Brownhill and Terisa E. Turner

Neoliberal approaches to women and climate change
Gendered, ethnicised, class struggle
Women's 'gift' to humanity
Big Oil and state violence
The Abuja Declaration

PART V - MOVEMENT

Extract: Vandana Shiva, Earth Democracy

14 Ecofeminist Political Economy and the Politics of Money

Mary Mellor

Dualist economics
The precarity of global capitalism
Why growth is made 'an imperative'
Challenging the money system

15 - Saving Women: Saving the Commons

Leo Podlashuc

The semantics of savings
Community and autonomy
Savings as praxis
International mobilisation
Saving women
Conscientisation and empowerment

16 - From Eco-Sufficiency to Global Justice

Ariel Salleh

Reproductive labour as leverage
An embodied materialism
Capacity building for the global North