

Call for Proposals

Which URBAN HUMAN-NATURE PARTNERSHIPS do you aim for?

We are inviting contributions to our exciting book project titled 'Urban human-nature partnerships – From the Anthropocene to the Ecocene' which is confirmed to be published open access by Edward Elgar Publishing.

As we live in an urban century and an era of exceeding planetary boundaries, positive visions beyond anthropocentric worldviews of human-nature relations are urgently needed. This book intends to present ideas from basic to applied research as well as affective interventions that are aiming at a deep change from the Anthropocene to the Ecocene. In this book, we want to rediscover, re-think, and re-sense the soulfulness, intelligence, and relational value of nonhuman nature in cities, its peri-urban borders and urban land teleconnections. The book will reflect individual and collective paths to strengthen our external and internal relational capacities to bring human-nature partnerships to our daily lives.

Preference is given to concepts and case studies which take into account relational models of human-nature connections that place non-human nature as equal to humans as well as to cutting edge methodological contributions regarding the co-production of knowledge in this regard.

Submit your expressions of interest until
1 September 2024

Abstract Submission
via Online Form

Detailed
Call for Proposals

EDITORS

Prof. Dr. Martina Artmann University of Applied Sciences Weihenstephan-Triesdorf, Leibniz Institute of Ecological Urban and Regional Development, Germany
Prof. Dr. Jessica Böhme Fachhochschule des Mittelstands, Germany
Dr. Markus Egermann Leibniz Institute of Ecological Urban and Regional Development, Germany
Dr. Christoph Woiwode Leibniz Institute of Ecological Urban and Regional Development, Germany

