Keynote Speakers:

Marina Silva,
Former Minister of
Environment of Brazil

Joji Carino,
Senior Policy Advisor for
Forest Peoples Programme

The FLARE (Forests and Livelihoods: Assessment, Research, and Engagement) network, supported by DFID and coordinated from the School of Natural Resources and Environment at the University of Michigan, aims to: 1. advance cutting-edge knowledge and practices regarding forest-based livelihoods, governance, biodiversity, and climate change; 2. increase dialogue and interactions between practitioners and researchers/scholars; and 3. create a global community of practice on forest-livelihood interactions. The meeting will focus on the approaches, methods, tools, and indicators to assess how, where, and why governing forest and forest mosaics for improving livelihoods works, and how it can be strengthened.

Meeting themes:

1. The future of forest work and communities;
2. Forests in flux;
3. Approaches and indicators to assess social and ecological outcomes;
4. Linking practice and research;
5. Pathways to prosperity;
6. Implementing forest and livelihood policies
